

AFTERNOON TEA - The quintessentially English experience

Emulate the upper echelons of English society to enjoy afternoon tea: a delicious selection of finger sandwiches, scones with Merrill jams and clotted cream, and indulgent pâtisserie.

Why not enjoy it even more with our English social etiquette coach, Helen Field, who will guide you through the experience in an entertaining and informative way.

Have your own private tea party in Merrill's drawing room, where you will learn about the history of traditional English afternoon tea, discover the correct way to serve and drink tea, the 'proper' way to eat scones and how to use the china, cutlery, silverware and glassware.

You will learn the difference between afternoon tea and high tea, hear about what to wear (beware - Victorian corsets are involved!), and discover how to leave the table plus so much more.

H | F
HELEN FIELD
· ETIQUETTE ·